He had been drinking since early morning, but he would be good for at least another gallon of wine before it made him senseless. He addressed Giustina in the poetic language of his native country. Come, pet parrot of my soul! he began, coaxingly. Fill me a cup and let me hear your ravishing voice! Tocktamish has cleared the house valley! Drink, my pretty nightingale, and the golden wine shall warm your speech in your little throat, as the morning sunshine melts the icicles in my beard when I have been hunting all night in winter! Drink, my fawn, my spring lamb, my soft wood-pigeon, my white bunny rabbit! Drink, sweet one! as the thunderstorm clears the hot air from the The Tartar s similes were in hopeless confusion, possibly because he translated them into Greek, but he was convinced that he...
