Excerpt from The Improvement Era, Vol. 8: Organ of Young Men s Mutual Improvement Associations, March 1905 It is dangerous, however, to be too explicit, and to give rules to follow on such subjects. Each case will differ from every other, and will require particular consideration. The following generalizations, nevertheless, may be ventured: A normal person in marrying should choose from among normal people one well adapted to his personality. An unbalanced person is restricted in choice and should select one strong in those characteristics in which he is weak.
