Excerpt from Alpine Winter: In Its Medical Aspects; With Notes on Davos Platz, Wiesen, St. Moritz, and the Maloja In this new edition of the Alpine Climate Series, I have made a rsum of my studies in the mountain health-stations of the Grisons. Although other matters have claimed attention and limited the time at my disposal, I have been enabled to include winter observations of the Maloja Plateau, in the Upper Engadine. As the Belgian enterprise of building a Kursaal there is the first true attempt to construct a building in these cold climates, with an efficient and costly system of ventilation and warming, without the aid of stoves, a special portion of the book has been devoted to its description. It is to be hoped that the example set in sanitary matters, in this undertaking, may be soon imitated by hotel-companies and proprietors, so that the great blot of the Alpine Cure Stations - viz. , faulty ventilation of dwellings and bad drainage - may meet with the scrutiny which such important points demand. In addition to the steps taken for renewing the air in this new establishment by artificial means, a plan has been adopted, at my suggestion, of introducing ozone into the building. This is effected by electricity in connection with the electric lighting of the Kursaal, a fall of the river Inn being the motor-force employed for the purpose.
