It is just one of my personal favorite books. I was able to comprehend every little thing out of this published publication. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Irvingiana: A Memorial of Washington Irving Washington Irving was born April 3, 1783, in the city of New York. As there has been some little discussion as to the particular spot of his birth, it may not be amiss, writing for an historical magazine, to produce the following decisive testimony on the subject. In a letter, the original of which is before us, to Mr. Henry Pantton, dated Sunnyside, Feb.15, 1850, Mr. Irving states precisely the place of his birth. The house in which I was born was No.131 William-street, about half-way between John and Fulton streets. Within a very few weeks after my birth the family moved into a house nearly opposite, which my father had recently purchased; it was No.12. and has recently been pulled down and a large edifice built on its site. It had been occupied by a British commissary during the war; the broad piazza was on the street door, and the garden was full of choice fruit-trees, apricots, greengages, nectarine--. It is the first home of which Mr. Irving was the youngest son of a merchant of the city, William Irving, a native of Scotland, of an ancient knightly stock, who had married Sarah Sanders, an English lady, and been settled in his new country some twenty years. A newspaper correspondent at-- years since narrated an anecdote of this early period, of a pleasing character, which, unlike many things of the kind, has we believe, the merit of truth in its favor. The story, as related, is given from the lips of Mr. Irving at a breakfast-table in Washington City. -Mr. Irving said that he remembered...
