Createspace, United States, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Reflecting on Midnight contains Brad Convisser s four previously-released e-novellas in print for the first time, Dogs of War, King of the Merge, FotoShop of the Gods and I Never, as well as 2 two short stories previously collected in the eBook Butchered (Drop House and The Butcher). All told, 6 stories, 85,000 words. Dogs of War - After divorcing his wife of two years, Gary Lettner thinks he has found the perfect house for himself and Molly, his eight-year-old daschund. But when the throats of the dead begin to cry out in a voice that only Molly can hear, and when evidence of past atrocities committed in his new home begin to surface, Gary finds himself an unlikely participant in a brutal quest for vengeance. Some crimes are too horrible to go unpunished, no matter the cost. King of the Merge - William Brookshire is just an average college student on the way to a midnight rendezvous with the girl who used to be the love of his life when a spur-of-the-moment street race turns his life upside down. He knows it isn t his fault when the driver of the Porsche runs a red light, knows it isn t his fault when the driver dies of the injuries he sustained during the horrible accident, but William just can t convince himself that he is completely free of responsibility. And when a vision of the driver starts appearing in his room, starts stalking him around campus, starts appearing in his car, it threatens to drive him mad. Fotoshop of the Gods - Douglas McIntire is just your average college student, out buying replacement parts so he can fix his broken computer. But...
