A LIFETIME OF LABOR THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ALICE H. COOK THE CROSS-CULTURAL MEMOIR SERIES

The Feminist Press at CUNY. Paperback. Condition: New. 354 pages. Dimensions: 8.6in. x 5.4in. x 1.0in. The work of the indefatigable Alice Hanson Cook benefitted the lives of working people and especially working women on four continents. A pioneer in union organizing, worker education, and equal rights for working women, Cook carried on her path-blazing work across the country and around the world, across racial, ethnic, national, and class lines, and across boundaries she refused to accept were impassable. In A Lifetime of Labor, called a deeply satisfying memoir by the Times-Picayune, Cook recounts a life of activism, teaching, and research that spanned nearly a century and intersected with progressive movements at home and abroad. Cook lucidly recalls the many phases of her long and remarkable career, including her years of research on creating just and viable options for working women. As the Syracuse Herald-Journal noted, Cook helped bring to the public issues as equal pay and comparable worth, maternity leave and support programs for working mothers. Alice Cook's autobiography, written when she was in her eighties and nineties, is a unique document in social history, an important record of her ground-breaking thought and research, and a matter-of-fact account of a life devoted to justice and lived to the fullest. A spirited autobiography by a pioneering feminist, labor organizer, socialist and scholar. Kirkus Reviews. Alice H. Cook (1903-1998) was a professor in the New York State College of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell University and a member of the executive board of Cornell's Women's Studies Program. Her books include The Most Difficult Revolution: Women and Trade Unions and The Working Mother: A Survey of Problems and Progress in Nine Countries. Arlene Kaplan Daniels is emerita professor of sociology at Northwestern University. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from...
