Norwood House Press, United States, 2013. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 211 x 178 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Board games are lots of fun to play. Have you ever tried to design your own board game? In some board games you roll a die to see how many spots you move. When students come together to design Go the Extra Mile, you answer questions on travel cards to earn miles and see how far you move. The first one to 5,000 miles is the winner! In this book not only will you learn about geography, but you'll also learn how to use addition and multiplication to keep track of all the players miles and decide who wins the game! Concepts include place value, integers, addition, and multiplication and readers learn about expanded notation and place value charts.
