God cares about every detail of life. Including productivity. But, what happens when productivity becomes a means to nowhere? What are the options when producing, creating, and working become a hamster wheel with no exit in sight? These questions haunted me amidst the responsibilities of leading a non-profit, guiding a young family, and the everyday grind and busyness of life. I needed a gut check. I didn't want formulas and quick fixes to keep up. I desired an entire overhaul of how I understood productivity. What I discovered in search of productivity hacks was an eye exam. A realignment of my gaze toward greater realities. The things I needed to keep up day-to-day wasn't a new app or latest software. I needed God. In this short, practical, and fast-paced guide, I share the principles, experiences, and lessons learned for producing, creating, and working in today's digital world. Whether you are a student, stay-at-home mother, professional, or retiree. This book will help you design a life that produces well, serves others, and glorifies God. In Gospel Centered Productivity we will explore: How we can honor God in productivity How productivity can lead to burn out, stress, and physical breakdown, if not seen in the proper light How to design a legacy for future generations through your productivity How to live a joyful and balanced life while doing some of your greatest work Where the gospel intersects amidst our productivity and creative lives And, much, much more. It is possible to be extremely productive and not lose your soul.
