Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Travel, Adventure, and Sport From Blackwood s Magazine, Vol. 2 The North-west Passage has been principally explored by Englishmen. The reason of this has been that Franklin, who, in 1845, left England with two vessels, the Erebus and Terror, to pursue that route, was never again heard of; and in consequence, numerous expeditions (for the most part organised by Franklin s widow, Lady Franklin) were sent out from England with the object of discovering the fate of the missing explorer and his companions. As all are aware, the present Admiral Sir F. L. M Clintock, commander of the steam-yacht Fox, brought home in 1859 indisputable proofs of his countrymen s sad end. Undoubtedly no vessel has yet passed from the North Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, or round the north coast of America; but, nevertheless, the discovery of this passage has been attributed to Sir R. M Clure, captain in the English navy. In command of the ship Investigator he took his course through Behring Strait, and followed the American coast until his progress was arrested by ice in long. W. 115. After spending three winters there, he learned that some English vessels (belonging to Belcher s expedition, which from the east had endeavoured to penetrate the North-west Passage) were lying some hundreds of miles from him.
