Excerpt: . lead the conversation, the little lady was still crying and continued so until Boston was in sight. Then, indeed, she cheered up, thinking to herself how she d tell Geraldine and have her see to it. Why, Lawrence, --Lilian, --who expected you today? Geraldine Veille exclaimed, when about four o clock she met them in the hall. In as few words as possible Lawrence explained to her that he had been nearly drowned, and as he did not feel much like visiting after that, he had come home and brought Lilian with him. But what ails her? She has not been drowned too, said Geraldine, alarmed at her sister s white face and swollen eyes. Thinking that Lilian might explain, Lawrence hastened off leaving them alone. Oh, sister, cried Lilian, when he was gone. Come upstairs to our room, where I can tell you...
