Of my poor boy; and gave with many a prayer A little favourite Bible to his care, And bade him keep and read it for my sake, The last best gift a mothers love could make. --Then, sir, I gave him up to God; and forth He went, to bless my eyes no more on earth. Excuse these tears; they give my heart relief; And God forbids not unrepining grief. The very Saviour wept when He was here; And nature claims the comfort of a tear. I would not strive against my Fathers will, Nor reckon aught that comes from Him an ill; But ah! I felt, I feel the chastening rod! And it smote hard though in the hand of God. Five years went by, nor heard I of his fate. --At last, one night, a man came to my gate, A war-worn...

Reviews

Great electronic book and useful one. It can be written in straightforward terms rather than difficult to understand. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Kian Harber

The book is not difficult to read through better to recognize. It really is written in straightforward terms instead of confusing. I am happy to inform you that this is actually the finest publication I actually have read in my individual daily life and may be the best book for possibly.
