Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1896 Excerpt: .becomes short after the loss of v. Is this because the u then stands before another vowel? If so, the general rule should be referred to or the note omitted altogether. Versat: original final vowel was long. The pupil will not understand this note. The characteristic d is long in the first declension and here retains its length even before final t. praeml: the // form of the genitives of nouns in ium appears a short time before the imperial period, hence we do not find it in Cicero, Vergil and Horace. Cicero died a short time before the imperial period and Vergil and Horace during it. According to facts and reasoning here given, they ought to have used ii in their later writings. Saepe numero (p. 69): the word nurnero is a simple ablative with adverbial force. This might be said of almost any ablative. The statement should bring the word under one of the common categories. On page 70, Professor Egbert gives the direct form of putassent as putaverant, and Professor Rockwood (on page 116) as putaverani. Are they not both wrong? The sense seems to require putaveramus. The use of the long word homoeoteleuton to name the repetition of an ending seems needless. On page 75, makes a sufficiently good use of his life, gets enough of it seems contradictory--we leave in disgust things which we get enough of. The best thing in this edition is the admirable life of Cato which it...
