Honor Bound: Race and Shame in America (Paperback)

---

By David Leverenz

Rutgers University Press, United States, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. As Bill Clinton said in his second inaugural address, The divide of race has been America's constant curse. In Honor Bound, David Leverenz explores the past to the present of that divide. he argues that in the United states, the rise and decline of white people's racial shaming reflect the rise and decline of white honour. White skin and black skin are fictions of honour and shame.

Americans have lived those fictions for over four hundred years. To make his argument, Leverenz casts an unusually wide net, from ancient and modern cultures of honor to social, political, and military history to American literature and popular culture. He highlights the convergence of whiteness and honour in the United States from the antebellum period to the present. The Civil War, the civil rights movement, and the election of Barack Obama represent racial progress; the Tea Party movement represents the latest recoil. From exploring African American narratives to examining a 2009 episode of Hardball-in which two white commentators restore their honour by mocking U.S. Attorney general Eric holder after he called Americans cowards for not talking...
