QUALITATIVE STUDY OF NONLINEAR DIFFERENCE EQUATIONS

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: LAP Lambert Academic Publishing | Differential and Difference Equations | We establish a global convergence result for the higher order difference equation where k is a positive integer and are positive initial conditions and then apply this result to show that, under appropriate hypotheses, every positive solution of the difference equation, converges to a period p solution, where the period p is easily determined in terms of the coefficients. Also we present some known results and derive...
