I do not think the egg had any chance of being fertilized. Mar. 31.-----This morning the male has been to the nest and the female resigned. He.exarnined the egg, but did not take any interest in it. He did not cover it, but began to call for the female. After a few moments he went over to the opposite box and called, and the female soon returned to her egg. The male is getting more tolerant, leaving the female more quiet on her nest. But he is evidently not in the spirit of sitting, and the presence of the egg does not stimulate him to the act. The decisive stimulus for such an act is thus not external but internal--probably a feeling which comes over a male periodically, and which he will manifest perhaps only if the external stimulus is also present. This...
