In this insightful and winsome story, Robin, a seven-year-old girl, sees Bobby, the new kid in the neighborhood, being teased and bullied by other kids. Bobby dresses differently and is very small for his age. Robin wants to help Bobby, but doesn't know how. When she talks to her parents about how mean the kids are to Bobby, Robin's mother walks her to the bus stop and sees the children picking on Bobby. After witnessing first-hand the teasing that Bobby has to endure, Robin's mother talks to Bobby and to Robin's teacher, Ms. Wells. Ms. Wells develops a clever class activity, using puppets to teach the children that everyone is different, but these differences should not be grounds for bullying. With the help of Dr. Todd, a friendly counselor, the children come to see the good in everyone, no matter how different. Robin, her parents, Bobby's mother and Ms. Wells come together to take action to prevent bullying from continuing in the school.
