CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 186 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 0.5in. An encompassing guide for novice campers of all ages, The Art of Tent Camping offers a complete list of affordable camping gear and dozens of how-tos for cleaning and maintaining your gear, recommended seasonal clothing requirements, save a bundle by building your own first aid kit, basic field repairs, and methods for prolonging the ice in your cooler. The Art of Tent Camping includes over 50 images detailing recommended gear, packing techniques, setting up camp, and much more. Here are a few examples: What happens if your GPS unit fails on a day hike and you're not exactly sure where you are? Follow the author on a real, fully illustrated cross-country ascent of a 10,000-foot pass as he shows you how to use a topographic map to read the contours and navigate by using a compass to set a heading to your destination. Ever wondered how people before the invention of maps and compasses were able to travel impressive distances without getting lost? The Art of Tent Camping shows you how to navigate using Polaris. But, you have to find it first! What is the difference between box stitching versus straight-through stitching on sleeping bags and coats? What does, for example, a 40% chance of rain really mean, and what types of rain gear should you have just in case? Besides risking falling tree branches, what are the other reasons why you don't want to pitch your tent directly under a tree? What's the first thing you do with those cheap wire or plastic tent stakes included with your brand-new tent? How do you keep your collapsible shade from becoming a twisted wreck only to be discarded with all the...
