With such encouragement, then, I continue my humble attempts to predict the character of the seasons with a much lighter heart than heretofore, feeling assured that I am not singular in my estimation of the work, and that I may look for encouragement, assistance, and support to many of the leading men of the country, and, more encouraging stiH, to the people as a whole. That all misrepresentation has been silenced and all opposition overcome I do not believe, and evil would be the day when meteorological investigations should be considered of such little importance as to be counted unworthy of opposition. I cannot conclude this brief preface without, in justice to myself, repeating in effect what I always have endeavored to make plain to my readers: I lay no claim to the discovery of an infallible system of foretelling...
