The title has been chosen as seemingly appropriate to the coloring it has received from the occupation. Without literary pretension, it is an humble attempt To outline passing scenes as they appear Where sights and sounds detain the eye and ear; And draw such glimpses of the land and wave As hasty pencilings suffice to save; To gather treasures from a world of strife And weave their shreds into the web of life; On its descending grade, to cull some flower Whose sweetness shall beguile the passing hour: About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
