Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.3in. Excerpt from Glaciation of the Uinta and Wasatch Mountains The Uinta Mountains rise somewhat gradually above the plateau countries to the north and south and reach their maximum elevation in the central portion of the range, where the highest peaks stand to feet above sea level. The maximum elevation of the mountains above the surrounding country is about feet. From the high central portion of the range the crest line descends gently both to the east and to the west. At the west end the descent is rather abrupt, but toward the east the range becomes irregular in form and ill defined, so that it is not easily distinguished from the bordering plateaus and mesas, and thus gradually fades out.
