Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Dinner to His Excellency Jules Cambon The relations between France and the United States have been picturesque for a hundred and fifty years. The most romantic chapters of the history of the early settlement of our country are the voyages of Champlain, La Salle, Marquette, and the other Frenchmen whose adventure, skill, and genius discovered and mapped out the lakes and rivers which have made possible the vast in ternal commerce of the country. Later, at the most critical period of the Revolutionary War, when the prospects of success were darkest, France recognized the independence of our country and formed an alliance with us for its maintenance. Second only to Washington in our affections is the brilliant young Frenchman who cast his lot with us in the beginning and remained true to our cause until the hour of triumph - Lafayette. Next to him is that great soldier, Rochambeau, whose splen did army and whose cordial co-operation with General Washington brought about the surrender of the British at Yorktown and the independence of the United States. Since then, the relations be tween the two countries have been of courtesy and friendship rather than of trade and commerce. We are to celebrate next year the acquisition from France Of the Louisiana territory, which has been of such incalculable benefit to our country. The exposition which is to commemorate this purchase, the terms of which made the conveyance practically a gift from France, is to be the most important and significant of the long line Of industrial fairs which have originated in the desire to celebrate the discovery and development of the country. It is desirable that among the first in welcome as well...
