[.]torment caused no ruffling to her outward smiles. Now at this moment the fox within her bosom was biting her sore enough, but she bore it without flinching. If you would rather that he should not come I will have it arranged, her mother had said to her. Not for worlds, she had answered. I should never think well of myself again. Her mother had changed her own mind more than once as to the conduct in this matter which might be best for her to follow, thinking solely of her daughter s welfare. If he comes they will be reconciled, and she will be happy, had been her first idea. But then there was a stern fixedness of purpose in Bessy s words when she spoke of Mr. Holmes, which had expelled this hope, and Mrs. Garrow had for a while thought it better that the young man should not come. But Bessy would not permit this. It would vex her father, put out of course the arrangements of other people, and display weakness on her own part. He should...
