If these fermentations occur in foodstuffs, their character and quality are so changed for the worse (with few exceptions) that they arc quite unfit for human food. It may be argued that wine and beer are both the products of fermentation, but that when taken in moderation they are wholesome drinks. In both these cases the process of fermentation is watched; it proceeds tinder carefully supervised conditions, and is checked at a definite point and moment. Besides which there are countless varieties of these micro-organisms some of which cause fermentations useful to man, while others are dangerous to his health. One properly possessed by these ferments is the source of considerable trouble to the housewife, and that is their capacity for producing effects out of all proportion to the amount of ferment present. It is not the quantity of ferment produced in a joint of meat by these mischievous germs which taints the whole : the widespread chemical change, which render it unlit for food, may be brought about by a microscopic particle of the offending substance. Moulds and Yeasts as Agents of Decay. Moulds also bear their part in causing food to be unpalatable, if not unwholesome, and yeast-plants grow freely in thin syrups, for instance; hence the fermentation which sometimes lakes place in carelessly bottled fruit. Thus decay in any of its varied forma may actually render food poisonous; it certainly makes it less wholesome; it spoils its appearance; and assuredly it leads to much waste of what should be good nutritious material. A dirty practice, which conduces to...
