Excerpt from Two Lectures on the Inquisition: Delivered by Request, Before the Young Men s Association, Milwaukee, Wisconsin Ifthere could have existed, upon either of these points, the slightest possibility of a doubt, the Jewish history would be a detail of the foulest atrocities ever witnessed under the sun. Persecution by any other than an infal libe authority; infallibly certain of the precise correct ness of its own standard; infallible in the knowledge of the odiousness to God of rebellion against it, and infallibly assured of its divinely delegated right; is a crime, so monstrous, so unnatural, so infamous, that every fibre of the heart revolts against it.
