Excerpt from The Warwick Woodlands: Or, Things as They Were There Twenty Years Ago Suddenly, after a long pause, during which he had been stimulating his ideas by assiduous fumigation, blowing off his steam in a long vapory cloud that curled a minute afterward about his temples, - What say you, Frank, to a start tomorrow? exclaimed Harry, - and a week s right good shooting ? Why, as for that, said I, I wish for nothing better - but where the deuce would you go to get shooting? Never fash your beard, man, he replied, I ll find the ground and the game too, so you ll find share of the shooting! - Holloa! there - Tim, Tim Matlock. And in brief space that worthy minister of mine host s pleasures made his appearance, smoothing down his short black hair, clipped in the orthodox bowl fashion, over his bluff good-natured visage with one hand, while he employed its fellow in hitching up a pair of most voluminous unmentionables, of thick Yorkshire cord. A character was Tim - and now I think of it, worthy of brief description. Born, I believe - bred, certainly, in a hunting stable, far more of his life passed in the saddle than elsewhere, it was not a little characteristic of my friend Harry to have selected this piece of Yorkshire oddity as his especial body servant; but if the choice were queer, it was at least successful, for an honest, more faithful, hard-working, and withal, better hearted, and more humorous varlet never drew curry-comb over horse-hide, or clothes-brush over broad-cloth. His visage was, as I have said already, bluff and good-natured, with a pair of...
