Excerpt from Suppression of Tuberculosis in Cattle and Dr. Von Behring s Immunization Methods: Lecture Delivered at the General Meeting of the Veterinarians Association of the County of Starkenburg, Germany; October 31, 1903 He, therefore, demanded the exclusion of all infected animals from breeding. Gerlach defended his theory and wanted it to become a law, in order to exterminate the disease, so that dairymen and farmers would not be permitted to bring infected cattle to the slaughtering houses. But notwithstanding the great influence enjoyed by Gerlach, his efforts were not successful and therefore the Perlsucht spread very rapidly. In 1882 the tubercle bacillus was discovered by Prof. Koch, and shortly after it was demonstrated that Perlsucht and tuberculosis had the same generator; 15 years later, Prof. Koch was doubtful as to the identity of the bacillus of human and cattle tuberculosis, and this at a time when preparations were being made to introduce a law for the inspection of meat of all slaughtered cattle. Prof. von Behring, in his last lecture at Cassel refuted this doubt most emphatically, and I believe...

Reviews

It is one of the most popular publications. It is actually written in easy words instead of confusing. You will like how the author created this book.
-- Art Gislason

This publication can be really worth a go through, and superior to other. It is amongst the most amazing publications we have gone through. You won't feel monotony at any time of your own time (that's what catalogues are for about when you request me).
