Excerpt: . . . theological meaning of aap has a certain reasoned connection with its primary or natural meaning. But we make no apology for any want of complete continuity in the transition. It is not our view of the thoughts and language of the Bible that the religious or spiritual is developed by the human writers of it out of the natural or philosophical language of their time, and that critics can trace the development. We hold it a worthier view that the Spirit of revelation poured new and intenser meanings, as revelation advanced, into the earlier and simpler language. The rise of the Pauline phrase, the flesh, for human nature under sin, is in our view another striking instance of this method of the inspired writers, or rather of the Spirit of inspiration in them. The last of the leading terms in biblical psychology which l...
