It is the second largest planet in the solar system, encompassed by a series of thin, flat rings composed of small particles of ice. Old English Saetern, a Roman gold, also most remote planet (then known), from Latin Saturnus, originally a name of an Italic god of agriculture, possibly from Etruscan. Derivation from Latin serere (part participle satus) to sow is said to be folk-etymology. An ancient Italic deity, popularly believed to have appeared in Italy in the reign of Janus, and to have instructed the people in agriculture, gardening, etc, thus elevating them from barbarism to social order and civilization. His reign was sung by the poets as the golden age . Identified with Greek Kronos, father of Zeus. Also the alchemical name for...
