Excerpt from University Bulletin, Vol. 21: University of Michigan, Colleges of Engineering and Architecture, Department of Civil Engineering; Special Announcement for Courses in Highway Engineering and Highway Transport, 1919-1920 The phenomenal development of highway transportation in the United States has created a demand for men having knowledge of and trained in a new technical field, which may be designated Highway Transport Engineering. Fundamentally, this branch of engineering deals with the science, art, economics and business of highway transportation of passengers and commodities. During the past decade, the United States has witnessed a rapid growth in the utilization of the motor vehicle as indicated by a registration of motor vehicles in 1908 and in 1918. While in 1908, a motor truck was rarely seen on American highways, in 1918 not less than were in use in the United States, motor trucks constituting from ten to twenty percent of the registered motor vehicles in the several States.
