

New Thought Common Sense and What Life Means to Me

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Cosimo Classics. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 296 pages. Dimensions: 7.9in. x 4.9in. x 0.9in. The number of women who sold self-respect, honor, virtue and all claim to the worlds respect for the sake of shining in the courts of kings is legion. One is led to question why so many such famous men and women of history are at the same time infamous. Reason will explain. Concentration of thought, unswerving purpose and intensity of feeling are what brings results in this life. . . We remember those people because they were vital influences in the world; they felt, thought and lived intensely. -from Famous and Infamous Women Though her name has largely been forgotten, Ella Wheeler Wilcox was perhaps the most widely read American poet of the 19th century. Enormously popular and often controversial-her collected Poems of Passion (1883) caused an uproar with its allusions to female sexual desire-the warm sentiment and bright optimism of her writing endeared her to millions. Her sprightly personality shines through in this 1908 volume of her essays on the early New Age philosophy known as New Thought, by which proponents sought to harness a mystical pan-religious spirituality for health and happiness. In her inimitable...
