Excerpt from A Danish and Dano-Norwegian Grammar English speaking students I had very often felt the lack of a reliable grammar of the language, and finally I made up my mind to try to supply the want. Special conditions of which I have not been master have caused the time inter vening between the writing of this book and its appearance in print to be a good deal longer than it ought to have been, i. E. About two years, and meanwhile there have appeared a couple of Danish or Norwegian grammars that may deserve this name. The reason why I have given my book the somewhat cum bersome title of a Danish and dano-norwegian Grammar will be apparent from the Introduction. As regards the use of the book I would advise the student first to make up his mind, whether he wants to study the pure Danish language or the dano-norwegian language. This must to a large ex tent depend upon personal and practical considerations. The tourist, the commercial traveller, the merchant may need to study one branch of the language or the other; the literary student may wish to acquaint himself with genuine Danish, or he may wish to study the vernacular of Bjornson and Ibsen. As a general rule I would say that the Danish pronunciation of fers, with its glottal catch and other peculiarities, more dith culties to the English speaking student than the Norwegian pronunciation.
